Question 1 (20 marks)
Kuuk Thaayorre is an Indigenous language spoken on the Cape York Peninsula.

Read the following sentences from the Kuuk Thaayorre language.

1. Pam yat
   The man walked

2. Pamal minh patharr
   The man bit the animal (meat)

3. Ngay ngokem rantyirr
   I jumped out of the water

4. Ngay patharr nhunh
   I bit her

5. Pam minhal patharr
   The animal bit the man

6. Minh yat
   The animal (bird) flew

7. Nhul ngat mungkarr
   She ate fish

8. Nhul wontirr ngokeln
   She fell into the water

9. Ngatal lain patharr
   The fish bit the (fishing) line

10. Ngok mungkarr ngay
    I drank the water

11. Ngat ngokeln yat
    The fish swam in the water

12. Pamal ngat thuuthirr ngokem
    The man pulled the fish out of the water

a. List the Kuuk Thaayorre words that correspond to the following English words. 8 marks man

   fish

   water

   bit

   fell pulled ate

Word order
In English, the basic word order is as follows.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Subject</th>
<th>Verb</th>
<th>Object</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Example</td>
<td>The man</td>
<td>slept.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Example</td>
<td>The cat</td>
<td>bit</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

b. Consider the order of subject, object and verb that is used in Kuuk Thaayorre, as illustrated by sentences 1–12 on page 2. Explain whether word order is used to distinguish the subject from the object, as it is in English. Use two or three of the Kuuk Thaayorre sentences from page 2 to justify your answer. 3 marks

c. Describe the context in which each of the different Kuuk Thaayorre forms of words expressing the concept ‘man’ is used. Include examples from sentences 1–12 on page 2 in your answer. 3 marks
d. The Kuuk Thaayorre word yat is translated differently in sentences 1, 6 and 11.

In one paragraph, explain what yat must mean if it can be used in these different contexts. How has the appropriate English translation been arrived at in each of the three contexts? 4 marks

e. What do the Kuuk Thaayorre words ngokeln (sentence 8 and sentence 11) and ngokem (sentence 3 and sentence 12) mean? 2 marks

   ngokeln ______________________________________

   ngokem ______________________________________
Question 2 (17 marks)

Kuuk Thaayorre pronoun and noun suffixes

Consider sentences 1–12 on page 2 again. Now look carefully at the Kuuk Thaayorre words corresponding to ‘she’ and ‘her’ in sentences 4, 7 and 8 below.

4. Ngay patharr nhunh  I bit her
7. Nhul ngat mungkarr  She ate fish
8. Nhul wontirr ngokeln  She fell into the water

a. List all the different Kuuk Thaayorre words that correspond to the English words ‘she’ and ‘her’ in the three sentences above. Describe the difference in meaning and function between these Kuuk Thaayorre pronoun forms.

b. Explain how the system of pronouns is different from the system of noun word forms (as described in your answer to part c. of Question 1) in Kuuk Thaayorre.

c. Translate the following English sentences into Kuuk Thaayorre:
   Sentence 1 – I walked in the water.
   Sentence 2 – The man ate the meat.
   Sentence 3 – I pulled the man out of the water.  10 marks

   Sentence 1

   Sentence 2

   Sentence 3
d. Read the following two Kuuk Thaayorre sentences, 4 and 5, and then translate sentence 6 into English. 3 marks

4. Paanth rantyantyirr  The woman kept jumping

5. Yak wontontirr  The snake kept falling

6. Yak pathatharr pamal

Question 3 (18 marks)
The surveyor RH Mathews wrote down information about the Ngurrimauer or Yabula Yabula language in a notebook from around 1902. The notebook is now kept at the National Library of Australia. The person who gave the language information was probably a man called Middleton. Table 1 presents three sentences in Ngurrimauer and their English translations. (Please note that some examples used in Question 3 have been edited slightly for clarity.)

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Ngurrimauer</th>

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Bawunga takkan dumpul</td>
<td>a man killed a possum</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kurnauunga innanin dumpul</td>
<td>a dog bit a possum</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Murraiunga ngurrean nguliwak</td>
<td>a woman told a child</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Table 2 presents a small group of nouns listed by Mathews in his notebook.

</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dumpul</td>
<td>a possum</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kurnau</td>
<td>a dog</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

a. After examining Table 1 and Table 2, write down the Ngurrimauer words for the following English words. 2 marks killed ___________________________
bit ___________________________

b. Compare the forms of the words for ‘a man’ and ‘a dog’ in Table 1 and Table 2. Explain the difference between the forms in Table 1 and Table 2, and also explain the linguistic function of this difference by giving two or three examples in the Ngurrimauer language. 4 marks

...
Table 3 gives some Ngurrimauer sentences that include verbs and pronouns.

Table 3

</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ngurrean nguttha</td>
<td>I told (him)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ngurrealang nguttha</td>
<td>I shall tell (him)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

c. In Table 3 there are three forms of each of the verbs ‘speak’, ‘sit’, ‘thrash’ and ‘tell’.

Explain what the three different Ngurrimauer forms mean and describe the difference between the forms. (Note that the word ‘thrash’ could also be translated as ‘beat’ or ‘hit’.) 3 marks

d. What are the forms of the word ‘I’ in Table 3? 1 mark

e. Explain the difference between the forms of ‘I’ given in Table 3. 2 marks
f. The sentence ngurrean nguttha in Table 3 is translated as ‘I told (him)’.

In what other ways could it be translated? 1 mark

RH Mathews, Notebook 6, National Library of Australia, MS 8006/3/4
Question 4 (15 marks)
The Pintupi-Luritja language is one of the varieties of the Western Desert language. Pintupi-Luritja is spoken in the Papunya/Kintore region of Central Australia. When an English word is used in the Pintupi-Luritja language, the form of the word changes slightly; for example, the English word ‘naked’ is pronounced as nikiti. This is because in Pintupi-Luritja all words have to end with a vowel. Also, there are only three vowels – /a/, /i/ and /u/. These vowels can be long or short; if long, they are written with a double vowel as /aa/, /ii/ and /uu/.

Table 4 gives several Pintupi-Luritja words and their translations in English.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Pintupi-Luritja Word</th>
<th>English Translation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>pluuwanarringanyi</td>
<td>is becoming a blue one</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>tayitirringanyi</td>
<td>is becoming hard or firm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>watpalarringanyi</td>
<td>is becoming a white fella (i.e. is behaving like a white fella)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

In Pintupi-Luritja, with some verbs, the suffix -rri means ‘become’. This has to be followed by a tense suffix, such as the suffix -nganyi that represents the present tense (‘is doing something’). See Table 4 for examples.

a. For each of the three words in Table 4, list the forms without the suffixes -rri or -nganyi and suggest what the origin of the word might be. 3 marks

   • ____________________________
   • ____________________________
   • ____________________________

b. What is the process for forming new words that is being illustrated in Table 4? 1 mark

   ____________________________

c. In Pintupi-Luritja, ritwana can be used to mean ‘red one’.

   How do you think you would say ‘is becoming a red one’ in the Pintupi-Luritja language? 1 mark

The verbs of Pintupi-Luritja are complicated, but for certain verbs the addition of the form -\textit{nu} marks past tense, -\textit{ni} marks present tense and -\textit{la} marks imperative (commands). The underlined \textit{n} shows that the consonant is a retroflex consonant, sometimes written \textit{rn}.

Table 5 lists some more Pintupi-Luritja words. The suffix \textit{-mila} is added to a word from another language to make it into a transitive verb – in other words, a verb that must have an object.

d. Write the Pintupi-Luritja form of the part of each word in Table 5 that corresponds to the following.

- kick: ______________________
- pull: ______________________
- know: ______________________

e. Identify the linguistic process for creating new words that is shown in Table 5.

- ______________________

f. Describe in detail the process by which the Pintupi-Luritja words in Table 5 are formed. You will need to use at least two examples from Table 5, giving the Pintupi-Luritja form and its English translation. Explain the function of any suffixes that are attached to the verb, as well as any processes of transformation into Pintupi-Luritja.

Instructions for Section 2
Answer one question, either Question 5 or Question 6, in the spaces provided.
Your response will be assessed according to the criteria set out on page 17 of this question and answer book.

EITHER

Question 5 (20 marks)
Drawing on your awareness of an Aboriginal community and/or interactions with Aboriginal people, reflect upon your knowledge of Indigenous languages more generally, and on your own experience where appropriate.

In your response to this question:
• refer to the target language (the language you have worked on)
• identify the community involved in reclamation
• describe specific examples of language use and learning.

Your response may take into account knowledge of Aboriginal languages other than the target language.

a. Identify the various roles that members of an Aboriginal community can play when a language is being reclaimed.

Assessment criteria for Section 2

Content
The extent to which the student demonstrates an understanding of:
• the broad issues related to language reclamation
• how and why languages differ and how they change over time
• the relationship between language and culture

Presentation
The quality of responses, demonstrated by:
• the comprehensiveness of the response(s)
• the coherence and relevance of the response(s)
• the effectiveness of the use of language examples
