2017 VCE Chinese First Language written examination report

General comments

In general, students performed well on the 2017 Chinese First Language written examination. Most students used their time effectively and attempted to complete all questions. A small number of students demonstrated excellent skills in language application and problem analysis. Others showed a lack of preparation, particularly for Section 2 – Reading and responding.

In Section 1 – Listening and responding, very few students answered all questions correctly or demonstrated strong language skills. The majority could answer Questions 1a., 1b., 1c., 1d. and 1e. accurately, although some students had difficulties recording exact years and numbers correctly, mixed up the historical figures and/or showed a lack of basic knowledge of Chinese history and geography. Some students did not use full sentences to answer questions and some used many incorrect Chinese characters.

In Section 2 – Reading and responding, there were few students who could fully understand the texts provided and use them accurately in their responses. Some students did not understand the task and could not extract information from the given texts accurately to complete the task. Some students ignored either one of the texts, or both texts, while some of them copied out the text and used it in their responses without demonstrating any understanding of it. Analysing the task and the texts provided is crucial to the satisfactory completion of the task, and students were required to write a persuasive speech to satisfactorily complete this task. A holistic approach was required. Some students did not state the role of the person who delivered the speech.

In Section 3 – Writing in Chinese, most students chose Question 4, followed by Question 5. Some students chose Question 6 and very few chose Question 7, both of which required students to write an imaginative text. Most students showed clear understanding of text types, although some students were confused with text types; for example, Question 6 was a story that will be published in a collection of short stories, not a magazine article.

Section 3 – Writing in Chinese

For Questions 3, 6, and 7, students needed to focus on the scenario given in the question and create an imaginative story. It was better to tell the story in the first person and describe the atmosphere and feelings of the characters. Imaginative writing needs to have some meaning that readers can find in the story.

Assessment criteria

- relevance, breadth and depth of content
- appropriateness of structure and sequence
- accuracy of vocabulary and grammar (including punctuation and, where relevant, script)
- range and appropriateness of vocabulary and grammar

Question 3

Students were asked to write about a main character of a book they had read during their secondary schooling and talk about the positive and negative impacts this main character has on young people.

Question 4

Students were asked to write a speech on the advantages and disadvantages of promoting Mandarin Chinese in mainland China.

Suggested advantages and disadvantages:

正面:
- 有利于各民族交流增强凝聚力，促进民族和谐 (improve the communications and the harmony among different ethnic groups)
- 减少地域歧视 (reduce discrimination between different areas/regions)
- 为中国成为强国奠定基础 (to establish a foundation for China to become a powerful country)
- 汉语规范化标准化 (to standardise Chinese language)
- 有利于汉语的国际推广 (it will be good for the promotion of Chinese worldwide)

反面:
- 方言消失 (dialects will disappear)
- 不利于地方文化的传承 (not good for the future of local cultures)
- 汉语表达的丰富多元性减弱 (will affect the richness of Chinese expressions)
- 影响日常交流（不同年龄段） (will affect the communications between different generations)

Question 5

Some people with special talents got into well-known universities in China without sitting for exams, and people have different opinions on this issue. Students were asked to write a report for a magazine.

Suggested advantages and disadvantages:

正面:
- 有的放矢地培养人才 (it will be good for people to be trained as experts)
- 为有特殊才能的人提供成才机会 (it will provide opportunities for people with special talents)
- 提高学校知名度 (it will make universities more famous)

反面:
- 公平性，弄虚作假，不良社会风气 (lack of fairness – people may practise fraud and corrupt social morals)
Question 6
Students were asked to write an imaginative story about how they became lost in the forest during a camp and how they found their way out.

Question 7
Students were asked to write a diary entry, imagining they were one of the boys who was sent to America to study in the 1850s and recording their experiences on the boat crossing the Pacific to America.
