General comments

In 2016, students were well prepared and performed well in each section of the Korean Second Language written examination. All students were able to complete their responses within the allocated time. In Section 1 – Listening and responding, students demonstrated their comprehension skills by identifying the required information from three texts. Students carefully followed the instructions as each question demanded a different response, such as commenting, explaining and stating supporting evidence. In Part B, some students displayed a thorough understanding of the listening text by including all required information accurately in their responses. Those students commonly presented their responses in their own words by skilfully rephrasing the information identified from the text.

In Section 2 – Reading and responding, students demonstrated their comprehension skills after reading a journal entry, an advertisement and an article. A number of students were unable to answer the questions in the expected language in this section. Students could avoid this kind of error by familiarising themselves with the structure of the examination paper during their examination preparation. In Part B, most students produced a well-written recommendation letter as required after reading the news article. High-scoring students were able to include all the necessary information and also convey their message in an expressive manner.

In Section 3 – Writing in Korean, students were required to respond to one of five questions. Each question represented a different kind of writing, such as personal, imaginative, informative, persuasive and evaluative. Students produced a very high standard of responses. Most students adhered to the word limit of 500–650 cha as instructed. There were some outstanding responses that displayed a high level of competence in terms of content, structure and grammar. In those cases, convincing ideas were produced, and each paragraph was well linked and grammatically correct. The most popular question chosen by students was Question 9, the personal writing task, which required students to write a letter to a friend, suggesting strategies to encourage the friend to continue in their learning of a musical instrument.

Section 3 – Writing in Korean

Question 7

Students were expected to write an imaginative short story that included incidents arising from cultural differences and unfamiliar local customs. This was the least popular question.

Question 8

This was the second most popular question chosen by students. Students were asked to present a script for a speech setting out the reasons as to why free swimming sessions should be offered to secondary students. Various reasons were presented, such as physical, mental, academic and economic benefits. Some high-scoring students produced convincing scripts for a speech by presenting sufficient ideas to support their arguments. Those students commonly presented a well-condensed topic sentence in the beginning of their paragraphs and also linked their ideas well.

Question 9

This question was the most popular. Students presented interesting letters to a friend suggesting possible strategies, encouraging them to continue in their learning of a musical instrument. Some creative suggestions were put forward by students, such as joining a music club, organising a concert, trying to play another instrument or attending famous musicians’ concerts. High-scoring students demonstrated their outstanding writing skills through well-linked paragraphs and grammatically correct expressions.

Question 10

This question required students to write an informative article on how families can contribute to reducing the problem of global warming. Students responded with some valid ideas, including practical suggestions about ways people can save on water usage, electricity usage and reduce waste at home. A number of students confused informative and persuasive writing. Those students presented their ideas by stating ‘우리가 그렇게 해야만 한다 (We should do so)’ instead of correctly stating ‘우리가 그렇게 할 수 있겠다 (We can do so)’ throughout their responses.

Question 11

This question required students to write a report on the advantages and disadvantages of extending students’ work experience hours. Some outstanding responses presented very creative ideas, setting out both the advantages and disadvantages on the topic. However, a number of students mistakenly assumed that they were being asked to evaluate the work experience program. Although those students presented a well-written report, they were unable to achieve a good result as their evaluation did not correctly respond to the question. Students are reminded to read the questions carefully before planning their arguments.
