Contextual background

Play: Trafford Tanzi, written by Claire Luckham, was first performed in 1980.

Themes: Women's rights, oppression, battle of the sexes.

Story: Highlights from Tanzi's life are played out as rounds in a wrestling ring. Tanzi tries to fight her way to independence from the moment of birth. Her mother wanted a boy. She fights people from all parts of her life as she tries to take control. In each round, Tanzi's independent spirit is suppressed as her opponents hold her down. Eventually, Tanzi fights to the finish against her husband, Dean Rebel. The loser will take on the role of 'housewife'. Tanzi wins. The play ends with Dean demanding another fight.

Play Setting: The play is set in a wrestling ring.

Staging: The play will be performed as a touring production set on a traverse stage.
